PRIVATE SECURITY ANALYSIS

AIRPORT SECURITY

To achieve the objectives and ensure security at airports, trained security guards in this specialty are deployed. They conduct inspections of baggage with prohibited items, as well as screening of passengers and aircraft crew. They make perimeter rounds and monitor facilities to prevent acts that could compromise security.

There are also procedures for the security of air cargo and supplies on board aircraft, to prevent the introduction of prohibited items into restricted areas.

MODALITIES - CRIMINAL ACTS

Criminals identify travelers at airports to track them and steal their money and other belongings.

These criminals target individuals arriving from other parts of the world, identifying them based on their travel bags, watches, or when they make money exchanges.

As victims leave the airport, they are approached or stalked, and when they reach their accommodation, they are assaulted and robbed of their valuables, as well as their documents.

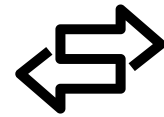

Other modalities are related to the opportunistic factor, taking advantage of:

Unattended baggage

Leaving belongings unattended in bathrooms or waiting areas

Deception or suitcase switching

RECOMMENDATIONS

Do not forget your documents: You won't be able to board the plane, and through them, someone could impersonate you or engage in criminal activities without you noticing.

Follow essential security recommendations: Step by step, follow the security recommendations established by the airport.

Take care of your safety: Do not share your location and do not disclose that you are traveling alone. Be discreet and avoid exposing valuable items, such as an expensive phone, smartwatch, or jewelry.

Use contactless payment: Avoid using cash in your transactions, whether at the airport, terminal, or any other time. It is preferable to use cards, as this minimizes contact with bills and coins, making it more difficult for thieves.

Be cautious with your luggage: It is not recommended to place valuable items in the checked baggage. If you need to carry a laptop, camera, or tablet, it is preferable to place it in your carry-on luggage.
